What is one unique quality about the project?

One unique quality of this project was the extensive use of radius framing on most low walls, creating a distinctive and visual striking design. The precise execution of the radius framing required careful planning and skilled carpentry, showcasing both the technical expertise and attention to detail involved in this project.

What is the one thing you are most proud of about the project?

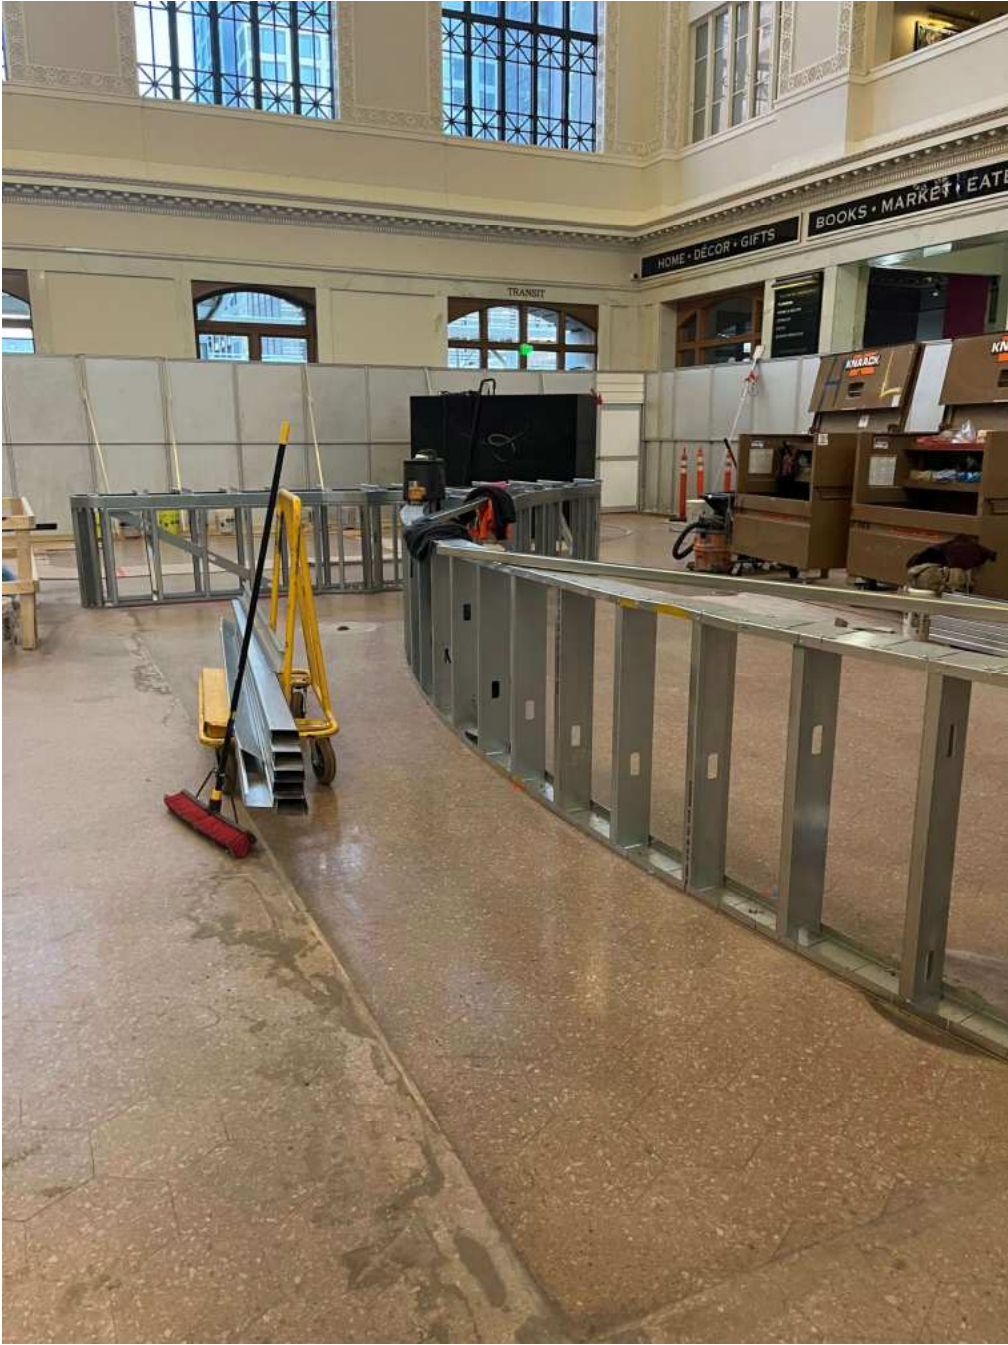

One of the most impressive aspects of this project was the creation and installation of custom crown molding plaster pieces. Using silicone molding we transferred intricate details into plaster molds in our shop, where we poured three-foot sections of each design. Top cornes, egg and dart, dentil and corbels. Each piece was made, assembled and transported to the site for installation. The attention to detail gave the design a striking presence.
